More About the Postal Reorganization

Editor The Star: I want to congratulate you on the writing you have put into Hope Star the last few weeks about the mail sorting section having been taken away from Hope.

Well, this is what I will say. I spent the month of July at my home in Hope and mailed picture cards to friends in Memphis. They received the cards five to seven days after mailing; in fact, I arrived in Memphis before the cards did. Never have we had such mail service.

The new post office is no good to us, you might say.

I for one, on West Ave. B, and I believe I speak for others, too, am going to do everything in my power to bring our mail service back to Hope. Thanking you for your time to read this, Sincerely,

ROXIE WATKINS

Apparently the new independent Postal Service corporation which Congress authorized but has to keep its political hands to itself, is winning a measure of success in and between the big cities, but is not yet doing a good job for the smaller cities.

One of the most reputable newspapers in America, the Christian Science Monitor of Boston, conducted a survey of first class mail service in the six major cities where it has regional offices: Boston, New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. In a dispatch published in the Arkansas Democrat Aug. 8 the Monitor reported the reorganized postal system has speeded up mail delivery in metropolitan areas "but there are still shortcomings."

Editorially The Star and most U.S. newspapers supported the idea of taking the Post Office Department out of the hands of Congress and creating a publicly-owned but independently operated Postal Service. Something had to be done, for the mail service was running up a deficit of more than a billion dollars a year.

The independent corporation had the task of automating the business of carrying the mail. It may have achieved some measure of success in handling letters in and between metropolitan terminals but the word hasn't yet reached people like myself who specialize in second class mail (newspapers and magazines).

We haven't taken legal action so far because there have been no recent complaints about delayed or lost newspaper mail in our retail trading zone.

If reports are correct, that the sorting section Hope once had but which was moved to Oaklawn Post Office, Texarkana, Texas, May 6, will eventually be moved to Shreveport, La.—that will be another dark day.

We'll wait and see. I made a prolonged fight against Hope's new Post Office and Federal Building and delayed construction for a year, but I was overwhelmed by federal arguments that the new building was needed because "Hope would be a mail-sorting center."

Then the government built a new Post Office structure in Texarkana, Texas, using the same argument, and moved our sorting section to Texarkana. Now Shreveport is completing a new Post Office building and pretty soon Texarkana will be using the same crying towel as Hope.

'No-fault' bill is apparently killed

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent back to committee a bill to establish a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, apparently killing any chance of congressional action this year.

"Everybody knows what this motion is all about," Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., manager of the bill, told the Senate. "It buries the bill, simple as that."

By a 49-46 vote Tuesday night the Senate approved a motion by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., to send the Commerce Committee measure to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Marlow Cook, R-Ky., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., argued that objectionable provisions and serious constitutional questions about the bill deserve study by the lawyers on Judiciary.

But, Magnuson countered, the 17 lawyers on Commerce are just as able as the 17 on Judiciary.

"This is a real blow at the American consumer," Magnuson said. "It affects every American home." The insurance-lobby pressure, he added, "must have been strong."

"Everyone was giving me this pious explanation: 'I'm for no fault, but ...'" Magnuson continued. "We'll have it back on the floor again in January."

The insurance industry was divided on the measure, with the biggest car insurer, State

Farm, neutral. Such insurers as Aetna and Nationwide favor no-fault; Allstate and Travelers are opposed.

A large segment of the trial-lawyers' profession is against the concept.

The bill would do away with most court suits arising from traffic accidents and would require companies to promptly and automatically pay claims within limits of $25,000 each for medical and rehabilitation expenses and $85,000 for lost wages.

The industry collects $14 billion annually in premiums and pays out $7 billion. Seriously injured victims recover only an estimated 16 per cent of their actual losses through court actions, according to a Transportation Department study.

Ten states have adopted no-fault-type plans, but only Florida and Massachusetts have laws which approached the federal goals in the bill. Massachusetts drivers in two years have had a 42-per-cent reduction in bodily injury premiums.

Explosions, gunfire hit Ireland, buses hijacked

BELFAST (AP) — Gunfire, explosions and massive street demonstrations gave Northern Ireland a tumultuous day of Roman Catholic protest today against the British internment policy.

Buses were hijacked in Belfast and the border town of Newry. A gang of youths stopped a freight train outside Lurgan and bombarded it with gasoline grenades.

British troops said they shot two guerrilla gunmen in the capital, and three soldiers were slightly wounded.

Several thousand Catholics took to the streets of Belfast at 4 a.m., the hour when the British Army a year ago today began rounding up men suspected of being activists of the Irish Republican Army.

In the year since, more than 700 men were interned without trial, but the roundups did not stop the IRA. Nearly 300 are still held, and the British released 47 more Tuesday. But the Catholics demand freedom for all and the end of the internment law.

Bombs and shots were heard in the Ballymurphy, New Lodge and Andersonstown districts of Belfast. The army said troops fired at and hit a gunman in Andersonstown, but the crowd dragged him away.

A mob tried to storm a police and army post in the Springfield Road, and a machinegun burst sprayed its sandbag emplacements. The rioters tried to ram the sandbags with a crane, but the troops drove them off with rubber bullets.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate amended a handgun control bill Wednesday to permit the sale of those suitable for personal protection as well as sporting purposes.

The amendment by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, was approved by voice vote after Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's sponsor, said he was willing to accept it.

Bayh emphasized, and Stevens agreed, that the amendment left untouched criteria in the bill such as weight, length, and frame in determining what handguns may be lawfully sold. But Stevens said some handgun models not suitable for sporting purposes are useful for self protection and under his amendment the sale of such weapons would be permitted. Bayh said he accepted the amendment with some misgivings, not because of what it did but because of the misinterpretation that might be placed on it.

One major amendment planned by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., would exempt dealers from the sales ban with the result that only manufacturers and importers would be prohibited from selling the guns.

Hruska's amendment also would require disapproval by the Secretary of the Treasury of individual models of guns before they would be illegal.

In the Falls Road, another major Catholic precinct, rioters dragged three buses and a truck across the street and set them ablaze.

Meanwhile, Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, hurried to London to confer with Prime Minister Edward Heath after two days of talks with leaders of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, or SDLP, the party of Northern Ireland's moderate Catholics.

Whitelaw said he would meet with the SDLP leaders again Friday.

The Protestant Belfast Newsletter claimed that at least 260 IRA "gunmen and activists" have been killed in the three years of religious warfare.

from Kenneth W. Dahlberg, the Midwest finance chairman for the Nixon campaign.

The cashier's check, drawn on a bank in Boca Raton, Fla., was made out to Dahlberg, who said it represented various campaign contributions.

The Post said the check ended up in the account of Bernard L. Barker, one of five men charged with burglary in connection with the break-in and suspected bugging attempt of Democratic party headquarters here on June 17.

Stans is reported to have told federal agents that he turned the check over to campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr., and it next went to G. Gordon Liddy, finance counsel of the campaign. Liddy, Stans said, then exchanged the check with someone else for $25,000 cash.

Sex barriers in US forces are dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — You've come a long way, baby, and now Uncle Sam wants you—in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines.

As an enticement, long-standing sex barriers to promotion and assignments have been dropped as the armed forces, though somewhat reluctantly, have begun to recognize women as equals.

With a changing eye toward motherhood, the military recently allowed female officers and enlisted women to do what many women do—have children and raise a family.

There are female generals and admirals. Women soon will serve aboard ships at sea, and there may even be the rustle of skirts at West Point and Annapolis in the not-too-distant future.

Four years ago, this was unheard of at the Pentagon.

If they weren't nurses, women were limited mostly to being secretaries in uniform. The highest rank was colonel. Pregnancy meant automatic discharge, whether married or single.

Democrats have new nominee

VP candidate takes swipes at GOP ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a prime-time unity show, the Democrats have handed their vice-presidential nomination to Sargent Shriver and cheered the ticket's opening swings at President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"I'm not embarrassed to be George McGovern's seventh choice for vice president," Shriver said Tuesday after the Democratic National Committee added him to the ticket. "We Democrats may be short of money. We're not short of talent. Think of the comparison and then you can pity poor Mr. Nixon—his first and only choice was Spiro Agnew."

The Democrats loved it. "If we have used valuable time in the selection of a vice-presidential nominee," McGovern said, "the nation must wish the Republicans had made their choice with greater care."

And thus the lines were drawn again, this time with McGovern teamed with Shriver in place of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, who withdrew last week after disclosing that he had undergone shock treatment for mental depression in the 1960s.

McGovern and Shriver were to try and sustain the momentum at a unity luncheon today with members of the Democratic National Committee, which winds up its extraordinary three-day meeting today with some ordinary business.

In the balloting, Shriver was given 2,936 of the committee's authorized 3,016 votes.

It appeared he might be elected unanimously. But then, Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes cast his state's 73 votes for Eagleton, and Oregon cast four of its 74 votes for maverick Democrat Wayne Morse who is trying for a Senate comeback. Guam had nobody present and its three votes weren't counted.

Shriver, 56, former director of the Peace Corps and of the antipoverty program, a former ambassador to France, and a Kennedy in-law, outlined the Democratic campaign in accepting the nomination.

"We intend to go out and ask of our young people not just to protest against inadequate schools but to teach children; not just to complain about the quality of law enforcement, but to enlist in our overburdened police forces and to join the staffs of prisons; not just to make speeches about the Third World, but to serve abroad in a revived Peace Corps; not just to talk about love, but to work with the retarded, the elderly, the lonely, the ill, the blind, and millions of hungry children on this planet."

"This is what America at its best has been," he said. "That is what we will be again."

And McGovern, who had several turn-downs from other Democrats before Shriver accepted the No. 2 spot, echoed his campaign theme: "It is time for a new American journey—not to an alien ideology or a foreign conflict—but home to the spirit which gave us freedom and nationhood. It is time for all of us to say: 'Come home, America.'"

All the former Democratic presidential candidates except Alabama Gov. George Wallace and Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas regrouped on the platform to welcome Shriver aboard—Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York.

Vietnam:

Ambushes take heavy toll

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese rangers have replaced government militiamen badly mauled in a series of ambushes only 17 miles east of Saigon. Officers in the field said 58 of the militiamen were killed and 55 wounded in the fighting Monday and Tuesday.

The Rangers, moving on foot and by helicopters, were maneuvering to get behind the estimated 250 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the Binh Song rubber plantation east of Highway 15.

The enemy forces ambushed a platoon of South Vietnamese militiamen on a patrol Monday along a dirt road between the village of Binh Son and Long Thanh. The North Vietnamese, armed with mines, mortars, and rocket grenades, then cut into the militiamen who were poured in to reinforce the patrol.

The fighting tapered off by Tuesday night, but the enemy forces held its position despite U.S. and South Vietnamese bombing, officers said.

Officers said it was the biggest action in Long Thanh district in two years, and the first time during that period that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had stayed and fought. Previous enemy attacks were by platoon-size forces on a hit-and-run basis, the officers said.

In Cambodia, Cambodian forces still holding part of the town of Kompong Trabek, 85 miles west of Saigon, drove back a north Vietnamese tank and infantry assault after withstanding a 500-round rocket and mortar barrage, the Cambodian command said.

It said the Cambodians destroyed three North Vietnamese tanks.

The Cambodians are being supported by U.S. bombers, and U.S. and Cambodian officials have claimed 24 Soviet tanks knocked out since Sunday in the battle for Kompong Trabek, more than half of them by U.S. bombers.

The Cambodian command also reported that one of its helicopters loaded with refugees was shot down Tuesday near Kompong Trabek. The four crewmen and 10 to 15 refugees from the besieged provincial capital of Svay Rieng were reported killed.

In the air war against North Vietnam, a flight of U.S. jets flashed laser-guided bombs onto the Dragon's Jaw bridge at Thanh Hoa and knocked out that important link in North Vietnam's supply network for the second time in three months, the Air Force announced.

Pilots from the carrier Saratoga struck in the Haiphong area, and their main target was the Hong Gai ship repair yard 22 miles northeast of Haiphong.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said a Navy A7 was downed by an antiaircraft missile last Sunday 10 miles northeast of Haiphong, and the pilot is listed as missing.

The Senate passed the milder amendment, then killed the foreign-aid bill to which it was attached.

But in a quick turn-around, the Senate passed the stronger end-of-the-war provision and also the Pentagon procurement bill carrying it. Because the House version of that bill contained no end-of-the-war language, the package was sent to a House-Senate conference where it may languish without action.

House moves toward vote to halt war

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressures heightened on both sides today as the House moved toward a vote on an end-of-the-war mandate coupled to a foreign-military-aid bill.

Neither side was predicting whether the antiwar amendment would survive, although both friends and foes conceded the House could echo the Senate and vote down the entire bill. Again, the lineup was too close to predict.

"I think the foreign-aid bill is in danger whatever we do," said Speaker Carl Albert.

Passage of the $2.1-billion foreign-aid measure hinges on the amendment directing withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina by the end of the year

Convention recruiting has begun

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Protest leaders are trying to recruit demonstrators for the Republican National Convention with an illustrated guidebook calling for "nonviolent civil disobedience" and warning participants to be prepared for mass arrests.

"The Manual for the Republican Convention" distributed Tuesday by five protest groups said the goal of demonstrations during the Aug. 21-23 GOP convention "is to isolate and defeat Richard Milhous Nixon."

The tabloid-size pamphlet urged protesters to avoid property damage and disruption of Miami Beach's senior citizen community.

"We will not provoke or attack police, National Guard or our brothers who are GIs," it added.

But the 24-page manual laid out a step-by-step plan for "occupying" the streets surrounding Miami Beach Convention Hall on the night President Nixon is expected to give his nomination acceptance speech.

"Four more years of Nixon will be accepted on the inside of the convention hall, while outside troops ring the perimeter and thousands of us resist and say NO!" the manual said.

Using aerial photos to illustrate, the guidebook mapped out four sites where demonstrators should congregate during the convention. It speculated on which areas police were likely to permit protesters to gather and the sites where arrests were likely.

"While the prime political purpose in coming to the GOP Convention is not necessarily to get arrested, the possibility of mass arrest does exist," the manual said.

The manual advised would-be demonstrators to keep identification and about $10 in cash in their wallets and know an address in Miami in case they are arrested.

It advised "brothers and sisters under 18" to avoid arrest because they would probably be sent home by juvenile authorities.

in return for release of American prisoners and a limited cease-fire to assure safe withdrawal of American forces.

The measure is one of two end-of-the-war amendments before Congress. The other, stronger one would cut off all funds for U.S. war operations and provide for U.S. withdrawal from all parts of Indochina except Thailand within four months if Hanoi releases American prisoners and accounts for GIs missing in action.

The Senate passed the milder amendment, then killed the foreign-aid bill to which it was attached.

But in a quick turn-around, the Senate passed the stronger end-of-the-war provision and also the Pentagon procurement bill carrying it. Because the House version of that bill contained no end-of-the-war language, the package was sent to a House-Senate conference where it may languish without action.

The waiting game

A Hempstead County ambulance serves as a shield for law officers and other persons who answered a disturbance call Tuesday night near Emmet, where an elderly woman armed with a pistol was barricaded in a house. It was reported to the Hempstead County Sheriff's office that she had taken an overdose of drugs. The Hempstead County Ambulance Service was called but attendants were unable to enter the house because of gunfire. Several shots were fired through the doors and windows, according to an eye-witness. After about 45 minutes, law officers entered the house and transferred the woman to the Nevada County Hospital, where she is listed in satisfactory condition, according to a hospital spokesman.

Grocer purchases 'useless' Eagleton stock

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP) — David Friedland, a 40-year-old grocer with a speculator's streak, has taken a flyer on 7,000 McGovern-Eagleton bumper stickers, 100,000 tab pins and 99,000 buttons.

He bought up the full inventory of McGovern-Eagleton advertising items last week from Votes Unlimited, a sub-siary of Ross Industries of Ferndale, N.Y. The inventory also included 1,000 pens and 1,000 catalogues listing available McGovern-Eagleton artifacts.

Ross Industries said it was glad to get rid of the stuff. Since Sen. George McGovern dropped Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri as his running mate, the Ross switchboard had been swamped with calls asking to buy.

Useless as campaign goods, the Eagleton supplies suddenly had become collector's items.

"I'm a collector of sorts," said Friedland, "I took a gamble that it would become a collector's item."

So far, business is pretty good.

Friedland said orders have come from as far away as the state of Washington.

"The Smithsonian Institution has ordered five copies of each item for display and cataloging," he said, and added:

"Eagleton himself has purchased a quantity."

Pink roses centered the dining table, and the 12 places were marked with cards decorated with pink wedding bells tied with green. ## Barbecue change of pace

Fresh Florida corn and cabbage saute makes different summer dish.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Fresh corn remains a summer favorite. For barbecues, try a change of pace dish with a Corn and Cabbage Saute. Merely cut uncooked fresh corn from the cob and combine with scallions or fresh green onions, chopped cabbage and slivered carrots. Saute quickly. This dish may be cooked on a camp stove or barbecue unit.

CORN AND CABBAGE SAUTE

5 ears fresh Florida corn
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup chopped scallions
2 cups chopped cabbage
1/4 cup slivered carrots
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

Remove husks and silks from corn. Cut kernels off cobs (makes about 3 cups). In large skillet melt butter. Add scallions and saute 3 minutes. Stir in corn, cabbage, carrots, salt and black pepper. Cook, stirring constantly 5 minutes or until corn and cabbage are just crisp-tender. Makes 6 portions.

Keep Secrets to Yourself

HELEN BOTTEL

Love Her, Love Her Sect?

DEAR HELEN:
I've been excommunicated from a religious sect in which my prospective bride has become engrossedly involved. She decided to dedicate her life to this service. I had doubts about some of the motives and aims and I showed my indecision, so they "banned" me.

I still want to marry my girl but I guess they have more of a hold over her than I do.

How do I proceed?—SO-CALLED UNDESIRABLE PERSON

DEAR PERSON:
I read between the lines that you consider your girl a "willing" prisoner and your real question is "How can I get her out of this mess?" You could have a point: a sect which "banishes" anyone who questions it may have something to hide.

Why not discuss the situation with a clergyman you trust? Perhaps the combined efforts of several knowledgeable persons can persuade your fiancée that all "religious" groups aren't truly Christian.—H.

DEAR HELEN:
I used to go to "X-rated" movies about once a month, well, maybe oftener. Whenever my wife had an evening meeting, I went down to the adult theater. Told her it was better than a topless bar.

The other night I found my wife in the audience. I'd thought she was at a bingo party.

When I confronted her, she said we had equal rights and, from now on, we'd go where we pleased, and maybe I'd learn something after a while.

I don't like the idea of my wife going to X-movies without me, or even with me. What did she mean by that remark?—BOTHERED HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:
Perhaps your wife meant, "This'll teach you!"

Why don't you two compromise and start attending R-rated films together?—H.

DEAR HELEN:
Our daughter resented our rules so she ran away from home and stayed two weeks at a girl friend's house. She was amazed when we wouldn't finance her stay, and she finally returned when her father said he wouldn't send her back to private school this fall if she stayed away.

She is not doing well in school. There have been brushes with drugs and other problems.

The biggest problem that faces me now is that she started going steady while she was at her friend's house (where there is practically no supervision). Now she insists that I sign for her so that she can get The Pill from a doctor at the Community Center. She isn't quite 16, so a parent's okay is required. But she says, "Don't tell Dad, he wouldn't understand!"

I know it's better for a determined girl to be safe than pregnant, but it's true, her father wouldn't understand. He's less and less inclined to pay for her private school when he gets nothing but insubordination. Should I keep this secret or share it with him?—MRS. J.W.

DEAR MRS. W.:

This latest problem isn't the "biggest." It's just another of the many indications that the three of you need family therapy.

By all means, discuss your daughter's latest decision with her father, but make it plain that threats and crackdowns (OR Mama's protection!) aren't going to work any better here than they've worked in the past. Somehow you must get to the real reasons for resentment (his as well as hers). A professional counselor is your best hope.—H.

Denny McLain baffles Astros at home plate

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"I had the old at 'em pitch tonight," Denny McLain grinned—and because of it, Eddie

Mathews had his best night as manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"That at 'em pitch—it's the best pitch in baseball. All you do is throw it at 'em and let

'em hit it 'cause it's the quick-

For seven innings, Denny had

'em baffled at the plate, giving

Houston one measly hit. Then the Astros caught up with

McLain, putting together six more hits for four runs in the final two innings.

But it was much too late. At-

Push for rights for disabled is expected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Legal experts from the 50 states have decided to press for laws assuring that epileptics, diabetics and others found in public by police in a dazed or disabled condition are handled as sick people.

A proposed law tentatively approved without opposition Tuesday is designed to bar their arrest, "which happens too often these days across the land," said Robinson O. Everett. He is a Durham, N.C., lawyer and Duke University professor who headed the committee which drafted the proposed statute.

Only two states — Georgia and Pennsylvania — currently require police to look for a possible medical reason for unconsciousness. The 48 other states will be asked to follow their lead as a result of the action taken Tuesday by The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

"We're trying to make sure ill people aren't treated as criminals," Everett said in an interview following tentative approval of the model law by some 200 legal experts.

Policemen would search the person for an identification bracelet, necklace, card or some other sign of a medical problem. If the officer found none, he still would be required to send for medical help.

The proposed law is designed also to protect alcoholics and victims of drugs.

Since the officer would be checking the wallet or billfold, the law experts took steps to protect him from lawsuits. That is, he could not be sued for invasion of privacy, larceny or illegal search.

Everett credits a teacher of French in Easton, Pa., for the proposed law.

Four years ago, John P. Cassidy, a slightly built man of 30, was being arrested for apparent drunkenness on a city street. He tried to fight off the officer, a hefty ex-boxer, and was booked for assault and battery. Later it was discovered that Cassidy was an epileptic.

The teacher was acquitted — and then began a campaign to protect other sick people from being arrested as criminals.

Strike progress is reported in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Port employers and labor union leaders agreed today that progress had been made toward settling Britain's national dock strike, now in its 13th day.

But they held out little hope of an end to the port shutdown before next week, despite increasing threats of food shortages and economic chaos.

The joint committee of dock employers and labor leaders met for three hours in search of a formula on job security and severance pay acceptable to the nation's 42,000 striking longshoremen.

Lord Aldington, chairman of the Port of London Authority, who heads the management side of the committee, said later: "We have made some progress. We now have agreement as to how negotiations with other interests should go forward."

He appeared to mean attempts by the committee to persuade inland container depots to employ dockers for unloading jobs. These jobs have been going to lower paid truck drivers. The dockers insist these jobs are theirs by right, because modern container handling methods have sharply reduced the labor force in the ports.

Jack Jones, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers Union, agreed with Aldington that "quite definite advances" have been made. He heads the union side of the committee.

Bumpers seeks Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers urged Amtrak and the Arkansas congressional delegation here Tuesday to seek federal funds for getting passenger train service through the state.

The Arkansas group met with Roger Lewis, president of the National Railroad Passenger Corp., called Amtrak, in Sen. John L. McClellan's office.

They asked about the prospects of getting railroad passenger service in Arkansas. Lewis suggested, according to one conferee, that it might be possible to work out a plan for the state to pay two-thirds of any loss on passenger service to the state.

However, Bumpers voiced doubt that the Arkansas legislature would approve such a plan and he said it would involve negotiations with adjoining states.

New York was bombing target for Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old airman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.

Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.

It was Aug. 9, 1945 — 27 years ago today — and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing World War II. An atomic bomb annihilated Hiroshima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagasaki on Aug. 9.

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission — a one-way suicidal flight — grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo when he was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.

"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:

Three long-range KI77s, twin-engine planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted.

They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator-navigator.

Five years earlier, a KI77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.

To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,500 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.

Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.

Takahashi, now a bank executive in Tokyo, says the military planners selected New York rather than Washington or another city because it was America's largest city and also because the jet stream could take planes there more easily.

"But," says Takahashi, "I'm happy the war ended before the mission could begin. I didn't even have time to be transferred to another base, and I never got to meet any of the others who were selected for the mission."

The Japanese Defense Agency says the war destroyed many important military documents, and it has nothing in its archives on the mission. But it says it has heard it mentioned and some Japanese military leaders may well have planned it secretly.

Bond, Dowd emerge as governor candidates

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two candidates opposing the "democratic establishment" in Jefferson City—Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond and Democrat Edward L. Dowd of St. Louis—have emerged from the Missouri primary election as the gubernatorial candidates for the November general election.

In Tuesday victory statements, each predicted he would succeed two-term Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who was at odds with Dowd in the closing weeks of the campaign and was criticized constantly by Bond for government patronage.

Bond, 33, the state auditor who won a state supreme court test of his residency to remain on the primary ballot, ran away from St. Louis County Prosecutor Gene McNary.

Dowd, a 54-year-old former FBI agent who campaigned for law and order, pulled away from Lt. Gov. William S. Morris by 110,000 votes.

State Rep. Jack Schramm of University City won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor by 70,000 votes over House Speaker James E. Godfrey of St. Louis.

But Schramm's November opponent was undecided today between Joseph Badaracco, the president of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, and state Rep. William C. Phelps of Kansas City.

Badaracco led by 975 votes with 95 per cent of the vote counted.

Mrs. Nixon holds interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — The blonde woman hiding behind a post in the Kremlin to watch two world leaders sign an important treaty was none other than Pat Nixon.

"It was so exciting it just made chills go up and down my back ... It was a moment in history," the first lady mused as she recalled her determination to watch President Nixon and Soviet Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev sign the arms-limitation accords last May.

She was supposed to stay in her room elsewhere in the Kremlin, she revealed Tuesday, but she sneaked out and hid behind a pillar to watch.

Displaying confidence and a gentle sense of humor, Mrs. Nixon held forth at a rare hour-long session with 16 invited newsmen in the yellow Oval Room of the White House family quarters.

She touched on subjects ranging from the presidential campaign and her opposition to "wholesale abortion on demand," to Secret Service worries about protecting the President.

She was asked to comment on protective measures in view of the disclosures during the trial of Arthur Bremer, convicted of shooting Gov. George Wallace, that Bremer had once stalked Nixon.

Secret Service officials, she said, are "terribly worried about it and feel that certain precautions should be taken. They're going to make these decisions and we'll have to mind."

Discussing the campaign, she defined the essential issue as she sees it: "I think Dick has laid the course and now he wants to carry it out. He has done a marvelous job, at home and in peace fields, and he wants to see more of his plans progress."

Her personal campaign, she said, will involve "meeting all the people I can of every political faith."

She said Nixon has weathered his first term well, describing her husband as "a very steady, sturdy person ... He also is not irritated by small things."

Mrs. Nixon also voiced hope there will be a woman in the Cabinet or on the Supreme Court in the next four years.

Problems arise in lumber industry, commission says

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A member of the federal Price Commission said Tuesday it may be necessary to abandon price controls on the lumber industry because of supply and demand problems.

Commissioner Robert F. Lanzillotti, who presided over a seven-hour public hearing, said, "It may be that with the supply and demand situation the way it is in the lumber industry that we will have to do without controls ... and let the public adjust to it."

"This is a very complex area," he said. It is not comforting to know that regulations have led to more problems."

He raised the possibility after a lumber industry official testified that prices in the industry were too high, that the existing price control program was not working properly.

Ted Cawthorn, vice president of Georgia-Pacific Corp., said price controls, if they are to be continued, should be placed on a specific problem area, not blanketed over an entire industry or group of industries.

S. J. King, representing Weyerhaeuser Co., said high prices have been caused by the high level of demand, which he said "has taxed short-term production capacity."

However, smaller operators argued they could put on another shift or work another day if they could get the timber.

Jack Taylor, representing the Oregon Consumers League, testified that consumers "are spitting nails over high lumber prices."

One firm submits a valid bid to state

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One firm submitted a valid bid Tuesday on health insurance for state employees. The state Employees' Insurance Advisory Committee rejected the bid because of premium rates that were considered excessive.

This was the second time that the committee had sought bids for the insurance contract without obtaining a successful bidder.

The committee thought it unlikely it would obtain a reasonable contract until the General Assembly authorized the state to pay a considerably larger share of the premiums than allowed now.

The committee, however, decided to bring representatives of large companies writing health insurance together to see if a bid form could be drafted that would attract more bidders at a later bid call.

The General Assembly this year authorized the state to pay $5 an employee toward the premiums of those participating in a group health insurance plan covering employees voluntarily in all state agencies. The committee also made life insurance a part of the package but the state pays nothing of that premium.

The Travelers Insurance Co. submitted the only bid Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stepped-up federal battle against cancer is pushing ahead on a variety of fronts, from fresh money for new buildings to cancer-control efforts once largely left to private medicine.

Letters

To The Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 448, Hope, Ark. 71801. All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in which case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

GRIM HISTORY

Editor The Star: Recently I read an advertisement in a national publication, U.S. News & World Report, which I wish every American citizen had the opportunity to read and ponder. May I quote:

Have you ever faced the possibility that your country could cease to exist? Nations richer and more powerful in their day than we are in this, have been sabotaged, defeated, enslaved.

Babylon was the largest and richest nation of its time, but its lust for luxury made it an easy mark for the Medes and Persians who overran it, and divided its land and enslaved people between them.

Rome was a greater military power than we ever were, but when free bread and circuses became more important than hard work and patriotism, Rome was invaded and destroyed.

The Incas were the most civilized, richest people in the Americas, but ruthless, better armed invaders destroyed them as a nation, and looted everything they owned.

In every case it was the self-indulgent weakness of the victim.

How strong is a nation which allows foreign competitors to capture leadership in vital industries?

How virtile is a nation which allows this or that group to decide not to fight the enemy?

How wise is a nation which gives away so much of its substance abroad and at home it can no longer afford to keep its own strength and protection?

How intelligent is a nation more careful to protect the criminal than his victim?

How weak is a nation which allows bureaucracy and a socialist philosophy to run riot and squander billions?

Undoubtedly there were Babylonians, Romans, Incas who warned against overindulgence and weakness, who warned also that each citizen is responsible for his nation, and that responsibility cannot be shrugged off onto high officials.

To those who warned of impending trouble there was then as now the smug sneer, "It can't happen here."

But it did. Sincerely,

SPORTSMANSHIP

Editor The Star: All parents of Little League baseball players have the same high hopes and aspirations for their sons. All the young players thrill to their victories, and despair over defeats.

When championships are at stake these emotions are magnified to an unbelievable pitch. During and after the Hope-Crossett game Friday night, the disappointed Hope team and their parents couldn't possibly have exhibited a more sportsmanlike attitude and warm, congenial friendliness to their opponents.

All who are connected with Little League Baseball could benefit from Hope's remarkable behavior both on and off the field.

Hope, we from Crossett congratulate you! Yours truly,

In the latest development, the National Cancer Institute has awarded $44 million in construction grants to 17 U.S. medical-research institutions.

Award of the grants, soon to be announced formally, means the first time in almost a decade that the government has provided funds for construction work in the research fields.

The cancer institute is administering the $500-million-a-year drive that seeks improved means of detecting, preventing, controlling and curing all forms of cancer.

NCI officials say cancer program costs will range from about a dime a day to feed each of millions of laboratory mice and rats to the $25,000 to $36,000 annual salaries for top researchers.

The building grants will provide new facilities, ranging from a 15-story research hospital for adult cancer patients in Boston to a unique project at the University of New Mexico Medical School in Albuquerque, says Dr. George Jay of NCI.

At the New Mexico site, a special unit will be built to prepare cancer patients for transport to the Atomic Energy Commission's nearly completed "meson factory" in Los Alamos, 90 miles away. There, pioneer trials are planned of a new type of powerful ray that may be useful for treating cancer.

NCI already has announced award of a $6.8 million contract to a private biological research firm to convert the former Army germ-warfare laboratories at nearby Ft. Detrick, Md., into a cancer research center and operate it for at least the first year.

The Detrick contract, largest ever awarded by any arm of the government's National Institutes of Health, was obtained by Litton Bionetics Inc., a subsidiary of Litton Industries, Inc.

The contract, labeled award-fee, is the first of its kind in the history of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The contractor has no guaranteed profit. What he makes depends upon the quality and effectiveness of his work, up to a certain fixed ceiling.

Its tasks include producing "literally buckets-full" of viruses known to cause cancer in animals, for use by researchers throughout the country, according to Dr. Robert Stevenson, who will manage the Detrick facility.

He says it also will be a major national center for the breeding of laboratory mice, rats, guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys.

Here is a rundown on other developments in the anticancer drive:

Since Feb. 23, the date the National Cancer Act of 1971 became effective, $19.8 million has been awarded for 136 research contracts to both profit-making and nonprofit organizations, including $4.9 million of the $6.8 million Detrick contract. About $15.6 million in grants other than the $44 million in construction grants have been awarded.

Almost completed is a master plan detailing the strategy for achieving the "expanded, intensified and coordinated cancer research program" called for in the act.

Ahead of the master plan, NCI already is moving in some new directions, says Louis Carrese, an associate director.

Among them is a multimillion-dollar program of research into some of the major fatal cancers, including malignancies of the bladder, large bowel and prostate gland, which NCI officials say have not received the attention they deserve.

Clinical and basic research has been expanded also into breast and lung cancer, which have been the objects of intensive study for some years.

NCI officials say, for example, that efforts are being pushed to automate the Pap test so that more women may be screened for possible cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Gio Gori, an NCI associate director, says the institute is pushing ahead with plans to play a much more active role than before in cancer control efforts nationwide. Plans include establishing programs for cooperating with state and other health agencies in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer and rehabilitation of its surviving victims.

USSR leads in cancer research

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Soviet Union's minister of health says that Russia leads the United States in cancer research, the U.S. leads his country in treatment of heart disease and the two nations are "shoulder to shoulder" in treating leukemia.

Dr. Boris Petrovsky led a delegation of eight Russian officials who toured the National Center for Disease Control on Tuesday.

The group is visiting the U.S. as a follow-up of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Joint Agreement on Health Cooperation signed during President Nixon's summit meeting in Moscow earlier this year.

Petrovsky, speaking through an interpreter, said joint cooperation between the two nations "will allow us to find new ideas, and new ways of preventing, diagnosing and treating diseases."

He stressed that the "complexities" facing the two countries are the same but he said he feels his nation is a shade ahead of the U.S. in the research of cancer.

He said the U.S. is probably "on a higher level" in the area of cardiovascular disease, "but the operations and surgical methods are basically the same."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Up to now United States world bridge champions have been largely restricted to New York, Texas, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois and Michigan.

With this year's victory in the mixed by the team of James Jacoby, Bobby Goldman, Bobby and Betsy Wolff, Nancy Alpaugh and Heidi Noland, two ladies from Louisiana have joined our world champion group.

Nancy Alpaugh's three-heart bid was typical of her aggressive bidding style. Her rebid to just four hearts was sufficient in view of her previous action.

Bobby Goldman is aggressive too and could be depended on to take further action with any excuse. He went to five clubs. From then on the bidding proceeded in a series of cue bids until Nancy finally jumped to seven hearts.

Nancy drew trumps with three leads and went after spades. She cashed the king and ace and continued with dummy's jack. East ducked and after long study Nancy ruffed. This play was correct mathematically, but if she had been looking at all the cards she would have let the jack ride.

When West showed out, the grand slam contract became a rather poor one, but Nancy still had a chance. She led a club and finessed dummy's 10. This represented only a 25 per cent chance, but any chance is better than none, and the 25 per cent chance materialized for her.

Family's round-the-world outing ends in tragedy

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Kim Powell loved the romantic lure, the adventure and the freedom of the sea. For years he dreamed of sailing the world with his family and he built a boat for the the challenging journey.

But less than two months after the family and a friend set forth, the dream has been shattered on a reef in the stormy Caribbean, the boat splintered, Powell and five others missing and feared dead.

The tragedy came to light this week when the U.S. Coast Guard reported wreckage of Powell's 50-foot catamaran, the Tapiti Nui, had been recovered near Glover's Reef off the coast of British Honduras.

Missing are Powell, 59; his wife Jo-An, 45; their children, An, 20, James, 12, Gina, 8; and a friend, Debbie Gordon, 23, all of Titusville.

They started the trip June 1 from this East Coast city, planning to circle the globe leisurely in four or five years.

An ardent sailing enthusiast, Powell twice before gave up jobs to sail the sea.

A friend, Bill Nassau of Titusville, said: "Kim was a nut about the water. He wanted nothing more than to take his family and escape from the problems of the world, just sail for the rest of his life if he could."

Powell got his excuse two years ago when he lost his job as a launch director for the Bendix Corp. at nearby Cape Kennedy.

Instead of seeking new employment, he began building the twin-hulled boat in his backyard, designing the catamaran as he went along.

Completed last spring, the boat had a 24-by-50-foot deck with two side-by-side cabins. Each hull contained a shower, separate toilet and a galley so two couples could sail together and "stay out of each other's hair," Powell said.

Under billowing sails, the Powells tested their ship in the Indian River. For windless days there were two diesel engines.

They named their magic carpet the Tapiti Nui, Tahitian for "big double canoe."

A few days before they started on June 1, the Powells showed off their vessel to newsmen.

He recalled two earlier "abandoning-civilization trips across the waters." The first was in his early 20s when he sailed the Caribbean. Later, he and his wife and a child sailed to the South Seas from California.

"It's hard to turn your back on a good-paying job, thinking about losing things like seniority," he admitted. "But it seems like the only people who get to do what they want is poor people." He described his financial condition as "impecunious."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The American Indian population of the United States increased more than 50 per cent since 1960, according to the preliminary count for the 1970 Census. The 1970 Census count of American Indians reached 791,839. The World Almanac notes, with 53 per cent of this number living in five states.

The greying, crewcut Powell recited seafaring poetry and talked about a legendary $60 million Cocos Island treasure long sought after by adventurers. He said he planned to look for it, probably wouldn't find it, "but wouldn't it be nice?"

Daughter An, a pretty blonde, said she had packed a five-year supply of hair shampoo and talked about conducting scientific experiments with sea life during the voyage.

Asked if she felt the trip would be dangerous, she replied: "How can we drown? All my family walks on water."

The nonfamily member of the group, Debbie Gordon, was a girl friend of Powell's oldest son, Kim, 25, stationed with the Army in Germany. The younger Powell is to be discharged this month and he was to have joined the cruise in the Panama Canal Zone.

The Tapiti Nui traveled down the Intercoastal Waterway, riding out Hurricane Agnes in Key West and departing there June 13 for Cayman Island and then two island resorts off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, Isla Mujeres and Cozumel.

The boat left Cozumel on July 4 for the southward trek to the Canal Zone and the unkept rendezvous with young Powell. She was not heard from again.

A Honduran fishing boat spotted the wreckage of the catamaran July 19 but did not report it until it reached port a week later. The crew said they spotted one body, that of a girl, in the wreckage but did not approach it. A British Honduran customs ship picked up the remains of the vessel: A pontoon, a cross beam, a mast and a few pieces of plywood. No body was found and there was no immediate way to identify the boat.

"It was not until Aug. 3 when the six were reported overdue in Panama City and we found out about the wreckage that the search began," a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman reported. Powell's brother, Wes, of Melbourne, Fla., identified the pieces as being part of the Tapiti Nui.

Charles Torrey, U.S. consulate general in Belize, British Honduras, said: "It is obvious it broke up, but we have no idea whether it ran up on the reef or broke up in a storm. We have had a lot of bad weather and a lot of local squalls."

On Tuesday, the Coast Guard abandoned the search for survivors, perhaps leaving Kim Powell to rest forever in the sea he loved.

SMEAT leaves 3 astronauts in good shape

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Three astronauts in an altitude chamber at the Manned Spacecraft Center actually are in better health now than they were when they started their long-term confinement two weeks ago.

Astronauts Robert L. Crippen, Dr. William Thornton and Karol Bobko started their third week in a test program called the Skylab Medical Evaluation Altitude Test (SMEAT) today.

In a news conference conducted from the chamber Tuesday, Thornton said he and his companions had a slight case of sniffles when they started the test July 26. Now those ailments are gone, he said, and the crew actually is in better shape than before.

Asked what he missed most, Crippen said: "I think the answer to that would be obvious."

"The most obvious thing I miss is females. And for me that's four in particular — my wife and daughters."

The astronauts were not too enthusiastic about the food.

"It's not like mama would make," said Crippen, "but it's edible."

THREE MAY BE a crowd in some circles, but for building maintenance men in Wilmington, Del., it gets a job done faster, and saves a lot of ladder raising and lowering.

Rev. M.H. Peebles was Kiwanis speaker here Tuesday

At Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting Rev. M. H. Peebles, pastor of Hope Church of Christ, was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Kiwanian Dewey Baber who arranged the program.

Rev. Peebles introduced his message by relating some humorous incidents that he has experienced during his ministry, and then discussed his convictions with regard to The Future of Religion and Christianity.

"Christianity and religion are vital to the life of any community," he said, "What industry would be attracted to any community that had no churches? A town without churches is like a town without streets, schools, and homes."

"Many seem discouraged today about the future of religion, and there's no denying the fact that adversities confront religion on every hand. We hear a lot about the new morality today. The new morality is no morality," said Rev. Peebles.

There are at least four good reasons that the future of Christianity is bright. 1. Many efforts are being put forth to bring about a unity of believers; 2. Large numbers of young people have become involved in religion and in a sincere belief in Jesus Christ; 3. Many more lay people are more dedicated than ever before in our history in the cause of Christ and evangelizing the world; 4. People are earnestly searching for something, for someone who is unchangeable and finding it in Jesus Christ. "In my opinion one does not have to go far off to see that the future of Religion and Christianity is bright," said Rev. Peebles.

Kiwanian George Frazier, chairman of the Kiwanis Pancake Supper, announced that this annual event would be held Sept. 1, immediately preceding the Ashdown - Hope football game at Hammons Stadium.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Nan Jackson, wife of Kiwanian Edwin Jackson, and Bob Willis of Hope.

Marianna: Town starts to rebuild after boycott

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — After 409 days, the black economic boycott of Marianna, which led to the closing of about a dozen stores and the town is beginning to rebuild.

Three of the stores are being cleaned, stocked and prepared for reopening.

While there is still not total harmony in this sleepy Mississippi delta town, there is a feeling of hope, tinged with some bitterness because of events past, that the blacks and whites can live peacefully side by side.

Sheriff Courtney Langston, 49, foisted a feeling of hope for town. He said with the new sense of hope there still is "a feeling of distrust because of all we've gone through."

"I'm optimistic," he said. "I think things are going to be better. Even the hard core of black militants and the Citizens Council people have calmed down some."

W. H. Daggett, who is serving by appointment as municipal judge said he believes time will heal the wounds in Marianna.

"I think they (the blacks) pushed it a little too fast," he said. "My prejudices — and I use the word advisedly — are less than my father's, as his were less than his father's."

"My children are almost totally free of prejudice," Daggett said. "I think this will work out among the younger generation."

Though the strife in the town has existed for decades, the physical, tangible evidence of black discontent began in June 1971, when the Lee County Concerned Citizens, a black group, began the boycott of Marianna stores.

At one point in the 13 months of the boycott, blacks laid down 41 demands, but somewhere in all that time they were lost or partly sacrificed for racial harmony.

The LCCC said the boycott was called off because it was "unnecessary to crush our own city."

The LCCC also gave these reasons for ending the boycott: —The organization recognized that there has been "some progress for blacks" in the community.

—There has been "a definite change in attitudes on the part of whites as relate to blacks."

—Black people "shall participate in the economic rebuilding of our fair city as owners and operators of business."

Bob Johnson, owner and manager of Johnson's Market, observed that at one time Marianna seemed "very explosive," but he said that has been changed now.

"Nobody ever went home and laid down and rested," he said. "We rest easier at night now."

He said that before the boycott "my business was about 60 per cent black and 40 per cent white. It went down 50 per cent during the trouble."

"It's coming back up now, but it's not up to where it was."

"One of their demands was that I hire a black on the cash register," he said. "I couldn't do that now if I wanted to. I've had to let three or four people go."

Dr. Irwin Redlener, a physician at the controversial Lee County Co-operative Clinic, says, "Downtown you can see that it's loosening up. I hear some new business will be opening. That's a good sign."

The clinic was one of the factors in tensions in Marianna. Some whites felt that it contributed to the bad feelings.

The federally funded clinic, which provides free medical care for the poor, continues with a patient load of 40 or more a day, while the administrator, Oly Neal Jr., plans for the acquisition of a site for a $250,000 clinic building.

Redlener and Neal say they now feel truly welcome at the Lee County Memorial Hospital, where use of the facilities by clinic physicians was insured by a consent decree in federal District Court.

Both praised the new administrator of the hospital, Ken LeMastus, for easing some of the bad feelings that existed between the hospital and clinic's staffs.

LeMastus, 31, who took the job after teaching in Tennessee, said the hospital "is here to be used."

"I haven't had any problems," he said.

The LCCC headquarters, once the hub of the black resistance movement, is nearly empty now. Most of the literature in the office now is devoted to black candidates running for election this fall and registering black voters.

H. C. Adams, the county judge, is one of those office holders opposed by a black.

Adam's opponent, Benjamin Anthony Sr. said, "In my opinion we registered just about every person that's eligible. We're just about at the bottom of the barrel."

He said that almost 8,000 persons had been registered and that blacks probably outnumbered whites on the registration rolls by 200 or 300.

Rabon Cheeks, 36, director of the LCCC, said that the county had 11,646 persons of voting age, of whom 6,238 are black. He said he assumed the blacks were in a majority of those who were registered.

While Judge Daggett says that one of the answers to eliminating strife is through the education of the young, there have also been problems in the school system.

In January about 2,800 blacks began boycotting the schools because school officials denied their request to hold a ceremony on the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King. Many of them got back into school before the term ended. Others completed their education out of state and nearly 150 pupils are attending summer sessions to make up for those lost months in the classroom.

H. C. Dial resigned as superintendent of the schools and Everett Kelly has taken his place.

Kelly said that blacks will be principals at a high school, the seventh grade and the grade four, five and six level.

Privately some blacks blame whites and vice versa for the problems in the town. Some blame newsmen. One store manager snapped at a reporter: "I don't want to have anything to do with you people."

There's been too much publicity about Marianna already. I've read some of the damndest lies."

One of the signs that things are cooling off at Marianna is that people now can smile at a framed cartoon in Adams' office which show Gov. Dale Bumpers awakening from a pleasant dream in which Marianna was in Tennessee.

SIGN OF TROUBLED TIMES in Northern Ireland, "Join Your Local Unit—IRA" is the message on a wall behind two Belfast lads.

The price of pregnancy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The advertisement read:

"Wanted: Female to become pregnant. Must be under 26, Caucasian, intelligent and interesting. $10,000 fee plus expenses for an 18-month period, plus educational scholarships and fringe benefits."

How many women would be willing to enter into such an arrangement?

Hundreds, says Leonard E. Goodfarb, a Philadelphia accountant who placed the phony want ad last week in the underground newspaper "Thursday's Drummer."

Goodfarb said Tuesday he has received calls from about 500 women and has interviewed about 20 applicants in person.

"The forces of life, the urges that make one want to create life are still present," Goodfarb said. "This is very refreshing after reading about abortions and contraceptives and all that."

Many of the women didn't want any money at all, he said, "and curiously enough, no one asked who the father would be."

Goodfarb described the potential mothers as "very nice and polite" in tone, rather than desperate.

"One said the idea always fascinated her, having a child," he said. "But she wouldn't know what to do with it afterward."

"Another one, a fashion model from California, said that she doesn't like the idea of marriage but she does like the idea of a child."

"And another was a wife who said she could use the money to put her husband through school."

Goodfarb told callers he represented a childless Philadelphia couple. The wife, he said, was unable to bear a child for medical reasons.

Later, he admitted there was no such couple.

"As a professional economic mathematician, I wanted to find out what price pregnancy," he said in explanation of the ad. "But on a deeper level, I wanted to pinpoint a serious sociological problem."

"Suppose your wife can't produce a child. Do you throw her out? So here, they would have an ideal solution."

Goodfarb — 45, married 21 years and childless — was asked whether such a method would be suitable for him.

"My wife's only temporarily impaired, so I have no immediate reason to do anything like that myself," he replied. "However, if two or three years from now we were still childless and if it were a customary practice, I might turn to it."

Boiling it down

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that throw straw bosses for losses:

"What do you have to do around here to get a merit raise besides work yourself into an early grave?"

"They just told me to report to somebody they call Loudmouth Harry. Are you the guy?"

"How's that again, chief? You'll have to run that order by me once more. I didn't get it the first time."

"He'd dock his own mother an hour's pay if she were two minutes late."

"Is this really my paycheck, Harry, or something you planned to give to the poor?"

"He's so cheap that after he gets to knowing you better, he'll start borrowing a sandwich from you every day for his lunch."

"I don't know why everybody is always picking on you, Loudmouth. It could have been a lot worse. What if, for example, they'd given us a boss with brains?"

Don't worry too much about Harry. Ever since he got his store teeth, his bark has been worse than his bite."

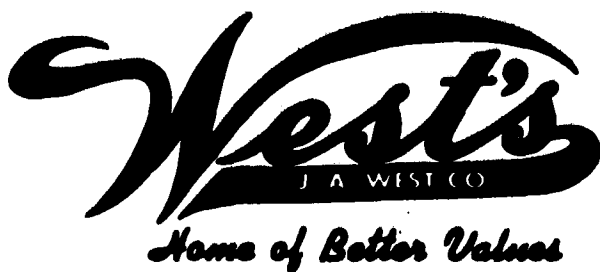

"How about it, Loudmouth? Do you put another bar of soap in the shower room, or do you want a strike on your hands?"

"If there is anything in the factory you want to steal, just put it in a wheelbarrow and wheel it out the gates. You'll never get caught. As long as you're pushing a wheelbarrow, Harry thinks you are working."

"Harry started as an executive trainee 30 years ago, but he never managed to get out of basic training."

"Harry, when you tell me something you want me to do, should I kneel and say thank you, or is it all right if I just throw you a salute?"

"Hey, Harry, wake up—it's quitting time!"

Runoff is likely in primary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. David Gambrell appeared headed for a runoff for Georgia's Democratic senatorial nomination in returns from one of four state primaries Tuesday night.

Gambrell led a field of 15 candidates in returns from one-fourth of the 2,107 precincts, but it appeared doubtful he would escape a runoff with State Rep. Sam Nunn, who was in second place. Former Gov. Ernest Vandiver, considered a favorite over Nunn, was in third place. Avowed white supremacist J.B. Stoner was fourth.

In Missouri, where voter turnout was heavy, State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, 33, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination over Gene McNary. With 50 per cent of the votes counted, Bond had amassed 111,692 votes to 23,900 for McNary in the five-man field. McNary conceded and congratulated Bond.

With more than half the votes counted in the 10-man race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Edward L. Dowd had a $4,000-vote lead over Lt. Gov. William S. Morris.

In Michigan, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, a conservative veteran of the U.S. House, took an early lead over millionaire fruit farmer Charles O. Zollar for the Republican nomination from the 14th Congressional District.

Two incumbent congressmen, William S. Broomfield and Jack McDonald, who were competing in a merged district. Returns were slow in coming.

House Minority Leader Gerald Ford was unopposed for the GOP nomination in his district.

Georgia's Gambrell was appointed to his Senate seat 19 months ago to complete the term of the late Sen. Richard B. Russell.

In Idaho, Rep. James A. McClure, a three-term Republican congressman, and Idaho State University President William E. Davis, a Democrat, won their parties' nominations for the U.S. Senate seat held by retiring Sen. Len B. Jordan.

McClure, from Payette, and Davis, a former Colorado University football coach, both won nominations in four-way races.

Returns from 500 of 661 precincts in the Republican balloting gave McClure 27,522 votes; former Rep. George Hansen of Pocatello 19,569; Dr. Glen Wegner, Kendrick physician-attorney, 17,876 and former three-term Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Boise 11,510.

In the Democratic race, returns from 488 precincts gave Davis 14,041 votes; state Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park 9,730; Byron Johnson, Boise attorney, 8,211, and Rose Bowman, a Boise housewife and women's liberation activist, 5,290.

People in the News

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Elvis Presley says he has consulted his lawyer and agreements are almost complete for divorce action against his wife, Priscilla.

"We have both been to my attorney and the agreements are just about completed. I'm sorry and disappointed that things didn't work out," Presley said in an interview published by the Memphis Commercial Appeal on Tuesday.

"I still consider my personal life extremely personal and will not comment at this time on any of the involvements. Just say I'm single."

Presley, 37, reportedly will file for divorce from his brunette wife of five years in Los Angeles.

The couple has one child, Lisa Marie, 4.

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Truman Daniel says William Morrow & Co. will publish in January a book she has written about her father, former President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Daniel said Tuesday that material for the book came from the former chief executive's private papers, "letters and memoranda written by him."

Lawrence Hughes, president of Morrow, said Life magazine will publish portions of the 640-page book in two installments late this year.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor-writer John Barrymore Jr. has been given until Oct. 5 to pay a $100 fine on a misdemeanor marijuana charge.

The son of the late film star John Barrymore pleaded no contest Tuesday to the charge at a preliminary hearing here. Municipal Court Judge Gilbert Alston said the 39-year-old actor must spend 10 days in jail if the fine is not paid by the deadline.

Police said Barrymore and a companion were arrested March 10 in a studio where marijuana was allegedly found on a desk.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Walter Brennan will be finance chairman for the American party's presidential candidate, John Schmitz.

Brennan, 78, said Tuesday the California GOP Congressman "is one candidate who is not committed to the big money establishment that dominates both the old political parties."

Schmitz, defeated for renomination in President Nixon's home district, was nominated at the third party's convention in Louisville, Ky., last week.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Ben L. Hooks, the first black member of the Federal Communications Commission, has defended the right of a white Georgia senatorial candidate to broadcast antiblack campaign statements.

Hooks, of Memphis, said Tuesday that while he personally abhors the statements by J. B. Stoner, he defends the candidate's right to make them.

In some of the television and radio campaign advertisements, Stoner, who sought the Democratic nomination in the Georgia primary on Tuesday, refers to blacks as niggers and states that "all the nigger wants is a white woman."

Dr. Cothran named dean of college

Dr. Tilman C. Cothran has begun his duties as the newly-named associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

The former vice-president for Academic Affairs at Governors State (Illinois) University, Dr. Cothran is a native of Hope, where he graduated from Yerger High School.

He earned his Bachelor's degree at Agricultural, Mechanical and Normal College, Pine Bluff; his Master's at the University of Indiana and his Doctor's at the University of Chicago.

Active in professional organizations and author of many articles in sociology, Dr. Cothran served as chairman of a Ford Foundation Experimental Committee on Teacher Education; as Ware professor of Sociology at Atlanta University; as associate director of the Atlanta-Fulton County Anti-Poverty program; and as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity Multi-Purpose Training Center at Atlanta University, among many other civic and sociological projects.

Hobby becomes job

Ross Bales, a longtime resident of Hope, lives on the Rosston Road and has turned his hobby into a source of extra income.

Bales, 77, a retired foreman for Bruner-Ivory Handle Co., used to build doll houses, which led to doll furniture and then to other toys. He graduated from doll furniture and toys to other things. Now he builds bird feeders, bird houses, porch swings and outdoor furniture.

Bales' work shop behind his house contains an assortment of saws, tools, and other equipment used in the carpentry trade. However, he does most of his work under the shade of a huge tree beside his workshop. "It's cooler out here in the summer, and I can see better in this light", Bales said as he kept hammering.

The shine on these rails is a good sign of a healthy economy.

The shine means trains are rolling, goods are moving, and people are working. The Railroads of Arkansas literally keep our state's economy in motion.

More than 650,000 freight cars cross over Arkansas' borders every year taking our state's products to markets worldwide and delivering the food you eat, the clothes you wear, and the machinery you use. You may not have realized it, but we annually handle more than 36,000,000 tons of goods for you and Arkansas.

Low-cost rail service is even more important today than it was when we first came to Arkansas a century ago. That's why keeping those rails shiny with plenty of service helps guarantee a brighter future for us all.

The Railroads of Arkansas are pulling for you.
